Introduction

Assalamu `alaykum and may the peace and blessings of Allah be upon you,

I ask Allah to enable this handbook to be an enlightening and welcoming resource. I wish for you to find comfort in its reminders, in the Quran, the example of the beloved Prophet Muhammad, and in the community we cultivate here at the Islamic Society of Boston Cultural Center.

The functions of the new Muslim handbook are to explain the Oneness of Allah, His Prophets and Messengers; to give concise guidance on prayer, and other cornerstones of our faith. It also answers simple (although not easy) questions and sparks deeper thought and meditation, provides beautiful, detailed visuals to aid in remembrance and learning, directs to further resources, and, perhaps its most essential function, welcomes new Muslims into our community. The efforts spent gathering and distilling this knowledge into handy breakdowns and resources is a reminder that our new Muslim brothers and sisters are not far from our minds. The carefully crafted details sewn into this yearlong project are a work of care, love and peace.

This book has exchanged many hands and been poured over by many eyes before reaching you, a loving endeavor. May it be a help and guide. May it open doors and incite questions. Welcome to this concise study, welcome to a path of questioning and ijtihad (a wholehearted and humble application of the self to a pursuit judged by the journeyer to be beloved, enlightening and necessary), and welcome, of course, to our community here at the Islamic Society of Boston Cultural Center.

I hope you find yourself absorbed in a corner of the café with a spellbinding book, or engaging with heart-opening revelations in classes, or perhaps most of all, I wish this handbook to become a well-worn companion that you come to reference less frequently and remember fondly.

May we approach each day as a new servant of God, taking in fresh observations with new eyes and questions. May you find knowledge, wisdom, enlightenment, comfort, and curiosity in this book and in seeking Allah subhanaho wa ta`allah.

We are happy to answer any questions or ideas sparked by your journey and the reminders you find here in this handbook. You may find the office hours of our Senior Imam, Sheykh Yasir Fahmy, at http://isbcc.org/our-spiritual-team/ or direct questions to x resources.
What is Islam?

Islam is a religion which purifies the heart through the remembrance of Allah. Hadith Jibril which remains one of the most foundational narrations in Islam illustrates the three core dimensions of our faith. It describes Islam, which means to submit to Allah; Iman, which is faith, an internal state and essential characteristic of a believer; Ihsan, means awareness of Allah in one's heart. All three, in tandem, instruct Muslims on rituals they must practice, religious knowledge they must believe and how they should worship Allah.

Narrated by Umar, one of the closest sahaba (companions) of the Prophet Muhammad ﷺ, Hadith Jibril presents the most concise understanding of Islam:

“One day while we were sitting with the Messenger of Allah ﷺ, a man appeared before us whose clothes were exceedingly white and whose hair was exceedingly black; no signs of travel were to be seen on him, and none of us knew him. He walked up and sat down by the Prophet ﷺ. Resting his knees against the Prophet’s and placing the palms of his hands on the Prophet’s thighs, he said: ‘O Muhammad, tell me about Islam. ’ The Messenger of Allah ﷺ said ‘Islam is

1. Shahada (The Testimony of Faith) - that you should testify there is nothing worthy of worshiping except of Allah and that Muhammad is the Messenger of Allah
2. Salat (Prayer) - to perform the five daily prayers
3. Zakat (Charity) - to pay the purifying alms
4. Sawm (Fasting) - to fast in the month of Ramadan
5. Hajj (The Pilgrimage) - to make pilgrimage to the Sacred House if you are able to do so.’

He said, ‘What you said is truthful.’ And we were amazed at him asking the Prophet and affirming that the Prophet had spoken rightly. He then said, ‘Tell me about Iman.’

The Prophet ﷺ replied, ‘It is to believe in Allah, His angels, His Books, His Messengers and the Last Day, and to believe in divine decree, both the good and the evil thereof.’

He said, ‘What you said is truthful.’ He then said, ‘Tell me about Ihsan.’

The Prophet ﷺ said, ‘It is to worship Allah as though you are seeing Him, for even if you cannot see Him, He indeed sees you.’

He said, ‘Then tell me about the Hour (the Day of Judgement).’

The Prophet ﷺ replied, ‘The one being questioned is no more knowledgable than the questioner.’

He then said, ‘Then tell me about its signs.’

The Prophet ﷺ replied, ‘That the slave-girl will give birth to her mistress and that you will see the barefooted, naked, destitute herdsman competing in constructing lofty buildings.’

Then the man left and I stayed behind for a time. The Messenger of Allah ﷺ asked, ‘Umar, do you know who the questioner was?’

I replied, ‘Allah and His Messenger know best.’

He said, ‘That was the Archangel Jibril (Gabriel) who came to teach you your religion.’ (Sahih Bukhari)
What do Muslims Believe?

Shahada
Our beliefs are based upon the Shahada, which is a verbal acceptance of Islam:

ash-hadu an la ilaha ill-Allah
I testify that nothing is worthy of worship except Allah,

wa ash-hadu anna Muhammad-an rasul Allah
And I testify that Muhammad is the messenger of Allah.

As narrated in Hadith Jibril, Iman means “to believe in the oneness Allah, His Angels, His Books, His Messengers, and the Last Day, and to believe in divine decree, both the good and the evil thereof.”

Tawhid
Tawhid or the oneness of Allah is the most important aspect of Islam. The first half of the Shahada attests to the foundational nature of Tawhid to the Muslim faith. A Muslim’s most important relationship is with his creator. Understanding and believing in the attributes of Allah is key to strengthening our relationship with Him. The Qur’an states in Chapter 112 (Surah al-Ikhlas): “Say, He is Allah the One, Allah is the complete. He neither begot nor was He begotten. No one is comparable to Him.” Allah exists outside of creation, and His mercy is limitless.

Angels
Muslims believe in the existence of angels. In fact, the Qur’an was revealed to the Prophet Muhammad through Archangel Jibril. Angels are noble beings created from light by Allah. They exist solely to worship Allah and carry out His command.

Divine Books
The Divine Books of the Abrahamic faiths are important to Muslims. Allah sent down The Taurat (Torah) of Prophet Musa (Moses), the Zabur (Psalms) of Prophet Dawud (David), the Injil (Gospel) of Prophet Isa (Jesus) and the Quran which was revealed to Prophet Muhammad. However, scriptures revealed before the Quran have been altered throughout history and present versions of those books are imperfect. The Quran is the Word of God and has been protected from modification.

Prophets & Messengers
Allah chose the best of his creation as messengers. Many of the events and lessons pertaining to the lives of messengers are described in the Qur’an. Muslim scholars consider “Nabi” (Prophet) to be someone who received a revelation from Allah and “Rasul” (Messenger) as someone who received the revelation and scripture.

Judgement Day
Judgement Day is another core tenet of the Muslim faith. This dunya (life) serves as a test from Allah, to see whether we choose righteousness or stray from His path. All souls will be resurrected for judgement by Allah, upon which a person will be granted Jannah (Paradise) or Jahannam (Hell).

Qadr
Allah is the creator of all things. Therefore, Allah’s wisdom is perfect and nothing can change His command. All that He wills comes to pass and nothing exists outside of His decree. Muslims believe in divine predestination because we believe in Tawhid.
Who is Prophet Muhammad

Our beloved Prophet Muhammad ﷺ is the final messenger of Allah sent with the simple yet profound message: there is nothing worthy of worship except Allah and Muhammad ﷺ is His messenger. Born in Makkah in 570 AD, he grew up as an orphan. His father Abdullah died before he was born and his mother Amina died when he was six years old. At the age of forty, Muhammad ﷺ received revelation (the Qur'an) from Allah through the Archangel Jibril. During this time Makkah was a polytheistic society ruled by merchant tribes whose power rested within the status quo. When our beloved messenger began publicly preaching to worship Allah alone, the ruling Makkah tribes persecuted him and drove him out of the city. Islam threatened their wealth and their polytheistic way of life. The Muslims, along with our beloved Prophet Muhammad ﷺ migrated to Madinah to establish the first Muslim community. Our Prophet Muhammad ﷺ founded a state, laid down a moral code and brought reform to the Arabian peninsula. His spiritual leadership cannot be separated from his role as a statesman or his exemplary character as a man. The Qur’an, the literal word of Allah, provides the foundational text of Islam, but Muslims learn how to practice our faith through the guidance of the Prophet and his traditions.

Hadith (narrations) provided by the Prophet’s sahaba along with Sunnah (The Prophetic Way) teach Muslims how to practice good character and the way a believer should conduct himself or herself. These sources stress a love for humanity, responsibility towards one’s family, community and a commitment to justice. The Qur’an states, “There has certainly been for you in the Messenger of Allah ﷺ an excellent example for anyone whose hope is in Allah and the Last Day and who remembers Allah often” (33:21). The importance of our beloved Prophet ﷺ as a guide in all aspects of our life cannot be overstated. Muslims are encouraged to foster love for our Prophet Muhammad ﷺ by learning about his life through the sirah (biography), his personal characteristics through hadith, and through practicing his sunnah.

The character above, which is used throughout this book where the Prophet Muhammad ﷺ is mentioned, translates to “prayer of Allah be upon him and his family and peace.” This is done out of our immense love and respect for the Prophet ﷺ. Allah says in Chapter 33 (Surah al-Ahzab) of the Qur’an:

“Indeed, Allah confers blessing upon the Prophet and His angels. O you who have believed, ask (Allah to confer) blessing upon him and ask (Allah to grant him) peace.”
What is the Quran?

The Qur’an is the divine word of Allah transmitted through the Archangel Jibril to our beloved Prophet Muhammad ﷺ. The Qur’an is only considered to be original in the Arabic language and has remained unchanged since it was revealed to the Prophet. It is said in the Qur’an about this miraculous nature:

“And this Qur’an is not such that it could possibly be fabricated by one in attribution to Allah, but it is a (Divine Book) confirming the Divine origin of and the truths that are still contained by) the Revealations prior to it, and an explanation of the Essence of all Divine Books—wherein there is no doubt, from the Lord of the worlds.” (Quran 10:37)

“We send it down this Qur’an (discourse) in Arabic so that you may reflect (on both its meaning and wording and understand.” (Quran 12:2)

“And, indeed, (by revealing it through human language) We have made the Qur’an easy for remembrance (of Allah, and taking heed). Then is there any that remembers and takes heed?” (Quran 54:17)

The revelation of the Qur’an to Prophet Muhammad ﷺ began in the month of Ramadan 609 CE and continued over a period of 23 years. The Qur’an consists of 114 surahs (chapters) and each chapter is comprised of ayat (verses). The surahs are classified as Meccan and Medinan, depending on the time frame they were revealed. Muslims should make a lifelong commitment to learn, recite and reflect upon the message of the Qur’an.

“This Qur’an surely guides (in all matters) to that which is most just and right, and gives the believers who do good, righteous deeds the glad tidings that for them there is a great reward.” (Quran 17:9)

What are Hadith?

The narrations provided by the sahaba of our beloved Prophet regarding the Prophet’s actions, words and tacit approvals are called hadith. These reports have been collected over time and their authenticity verified by hadith scholars. Hadith illustrate Islamic tradition and how our Prophet modeled our religion. The Qur’an and hadith both serve as the sources of Islamic law.

Sunnah

The teachings and lessons from the life of our beloved Prophet Muhammad are called Sunnah. Our Prophet’s Sunnah is known through hundreds of thousands of hadith that have been narrated by his sahaba. Muslims are encouraged to emulate the prophetic character of our beloved Muhammad for he serves as the best guide to mankind, and the best way to do so is through our Prophet’s Sunnah.
The Prayers

The term “salat” in this book refers to the ritual act of prayer in Islam and the term “dua” (supplication) means to address Allah with a certain need.

Muslims practice gratitude and submission to Allah by performing salat five times a day, based on the position of the sun throughout the day. Salat is obligatory for all believers who are of sound mind and maturity. It’s a blessed opportunity to speak directly to our creator and ask for forgiveness for our shortcomings and ease from our hardships.

The following requirements must be met in order to perform salat properly:

Preparation for Prayer

Wudu Ritual Wash

Wudu is the process of washing the body with clean water in preparation for prayer.

The following should be performed in sequential order during wudu:

1. Begin by making the intention to perform wudu and saying “Bismillah” (in the name of Allah)
2. Wash your right hand up to and including the wrist three times, do the same to left hand
3. Rinse your mouth ensuring no food is left. Repeat three times
4. With your right hand, bring water to the nose. Lightly sniff it in and blow it out right away as you wipe the nose downward with left hand. Repeat three times
5. Wash your face (chin to hairline and ear to ear) three times
6. Wash the right arm from fingertips up to the elbow three times. Do the same to left arm
7. With wet hands, wipe your hairline from the front to the back, and then reverse one time
8. Wash your right foot from tip of toes up to the ankle including in between toes three times. Repeat for the left foot

Actions that nullify Wudu

These are the actions that necessitate wudu:

• Deep sleep
• Bleeding, vomiting, urinating, defecating
• Engaging in acts of intimacy with one’s spouse

Ghusul

Major impurities cannot be removed by wudu and require ghusl (a ritual bath) to be taken in order to attain a state of ritual purity. The following are considered major impurities:

• Menstruation
• Postpartum bleeding
• Ejaculation
• Sexual intercourse (impurity applies for both parties)

Ghusul Ritual Bath

• Begin with the intention to perform ghusl
• Wash your hands from fingertips to wrist
• Wash your private parts, ensuring any impurities is washed off
• Perform wudu as outlined above
• Pour water over your head three times
• Then divide the body into four parts and wash in the following order: top right, top left, bottom right, bottom left

After ghusl, one is considered to be in the state of ritual purity. Performing ghusl replaces wudu, however, wudu does not replace ghusl.

Rites Particular to Women

There are guidelines within Islam particular to women during their menstrual or postpartum bleeding. Women during these states are required to abstain from acts of worship which require ghusl or wudu. This includes the following:

• Salat
• Fasting during Ramadan (must make up missed days)
• Touching the Arabic copy of the Qur’an

After bleeding has ended, ghusul must be performed before any of those acts of worship may be observed.
Prayer Instructions

Prayer consists of rakats (cycles). Each rakat includes the following sequential positions:

1. All prayers should start with the niyyah (intention) to make the specific prayer that you are about to pray
2. Raise your hands above your shoulders and say the opening proclamation - Allahu Akbar (Allah is great)
3. Stand straight with right hand folded over the left hand above the navel.
4. Recite the first chapter of the Qur’an, Surah Al-Fatihah (“The Opening”).

Then you turn your head left and repeat “as-salamu ‘alaykum wa rahmat Allah”. This signifies the conclusion of your prayer.

Prayer Times and Length

There are five obligatory prayers performed daily and each of those prayers has a designated time when it begins and when it should end. The prayer times are calculated according to the position of sun and are available online at http://isbcc.org/prayer-times/ or in any masjid. Each prayer has specific amount of rakats listed below:

What is Zakat?

Zakat means “to purify” and refers to alms-giving as an obligation upon each believing adult. This is not a voluntary charity but a religious responsibility to purify one's wealth. Allah provides Muslims with abundance and Muslims worship Him by taking care of the poor and the needy. Zakat is a central pillar of Islam and both types must be fulfilled each year.

Zakat al-fitr

Zakat al-Fitr is a set amount paid during Ramadan and must be paid before Eid al-Fitr prayer. This Zakat is usually paid in staple foods such as grains or dates and given directly to the poor. The head of a household must pay Zakat al-Fitr for themselves and each of their dependents. Since Zakat al-Fitr is a set amount regardless of income level, it tends to be a much lower amount than Zakat al-Mal. It’s to make sure communities feed their needy and the poor have resources to properly celebrate Eid al-Fitr.

Zakat al-Mal

Zakat al-Mal is paid each lunar year and consists of 2.5% of one’s wealth excluding living expenses. This includes any property, crops or livestock, gold, savings and liquid assets that an individual possesses at the end of each lunar year. Zakat al-Mal can be paid directly to the poor, to masajids or to institutions employed to administer Zakat.

What is Ramadan?

Ramadan is the ninth month of the Hijri Calendar (Islamic lunar calendar) and the holiest month of the year. The first verses of Qur’an were revealed to our beloved Prophet Muhammad (ﷺ) during Ramadan. Muslims are encouraged to increase in their abstention from sins and to increase their acts of worship through fasting, reading Qur’an, praying supplementary salah, giving charity and being of service to their community. Good deeds and supplications are especially multiplied in reward during Ramadan. It’s important to take advantage of every moment to worship Allah during this blessed month.

Fasting

Muslims fast from sunrise to sundown during Ramadan. This means abstaining from food, drink, smoking and intimacy with one’s significant other. It’s especially important to abstain from harmful or sinful behavior. While fasting is obligatory for all able-bodied adults there are exceptions for individuals who are sick, pregnant, breastfeeding or traveling. Women who are menstruating or experiencing postpartum bleeding are also exempt from fasting. Those who miss days of fasting during Ramadan are obligated to make them up.

Fasting during Ramadan is one of the key ways Muslims show submission to Allah. It takes physical and spiritual discipline. Each fast begins by making the intention to fast. Muslims prepare to fast with a pre-dawn meal called Suhur which should consist of enough nutrients to get through the day. The fast is broken at sundown with dates and a drink. After Maghrib prayer, Muslims share a post-fast meal called Iftar, which family and friends. Ramadan is a month of community and reflection. Both Suhur and Iftar provide an opportunity to share a communal meal.

Taraweeh

Our beloved Prophet Muhammad (ﷺ) routinely performed Qiyam al-Layl (night prayers) to supplement the five obligatory prayers. During Ramadan, Muslims perform Qiyam al-Layl in congregation called Taraweeh. Taraweeh takes place after Isha prayer and provides an additional opportunity to remember Allah. Praying Taraweeh in congregation is a great way to become spiritually closer to Allah and to one’s community.

Eid al-Fitr

Eid al-Fitr is the holiday that marks the end of Ramadan. Muslims mark the end of their fast by celebrating with their community. It’s sunnah to wear one’s best clothes, eat prior to attending the congregational Eid prayer in the morning and spend time with family and friends. Eid al-Fitr is also an occasion to continue the good deeds of Ramadan specifically charity and strengthening the ties of community.

Eid al-Adha

Eid al-Adha, the 2nd major holiday on the Hijri Calendar, takes place on the 10th of Dhu’l Hijjah and lasts for 4 days. This Eid commemorates the willingness of Prophet Abraham to sacrifice his son as an act of submission to Allah. It is sunnah to fast the first nine days of the month and to increase your acts of worship. Similar to Eid al-Fitr, Muslims attend congregational Eid prayer in the morning and celebrate with their families, friends and larger community.
Character of a Muslim

Etiquette

Islam is expressed through the character of a Muslim. The importance of adab is directly connected to the Sunnah and manners of the Prophet Muhammad ﷺ. A Muslim should always strive towards excellence and beauty by following the guidance of our beloved Prophet ﷺ. Proper adab is required in every act of worship. It is also an obligation in how Muslims interact with one another because proper adab strengthens the bonds of community and brotherhood. Below are a few rights of adab that a Muslim owe to their fellow Muslims:

Salam

Muslims should greet one another by saying “As-Salamu Alaykum” - “May peace be upon you.” The response is required and should be “Wa Alaykum as-Salam.” A person entering to a gathering of people should initiate the greeting first.

Responding to invitations

When one is invited to a gathering or celebration by a fellow Muslim, it is proper adab to accept the invitation unless there is a valid reason one is unable to attend.

Visiting the sick

Muslims have a social responsibility to visit the sick, both those they know and those who are strangers. Spending time with the sick helps to alleviate their loneliness. It is proper adab to make supplication for their return to good health.

Attending funerals

It is obligatory for Muslims to pray Janaza (funeral prayer) for another Muslim if one hears of their death. Muslims pray for the dead and ask Allah to forgive their sins. There is additional reward for following the funeral procession until the body is buried.

Responding to a sneeze

When a Muslim hears another Muslim sneeze, it is obligatory to say “yarhamukAllah” (may Allah have mercy on you).

Modesty

Modesty in speech, actions and dress is considered to be an outer reflection of faith and has a central importance in Islam. Muslims are required to abstain from harmful speech or actions such as backbiting or aggressive behavior.

The Qur’an instructs both men and women on modesty: “Say to the believing men that they should lower their gaze and guard their modesty” (Quran 24:30) “And say to the believing women that they should lower their gaze and guard their modesty” (Quran 24:31).

It is required for men to cover between the navel and the knee both in public and in private. It is required for women to cover the body and the hair in public. A woman’s hair does not need to be covered from other women or male relatives.

The following are prohibited:
- Tight or revealing clothing for either men or women
- Silk and gold are prohibited for men
- Clothing or accessories belonging to a specific religion that is different from Islam
- Wearing clothes for the sake of pride and prestige

Islam & Food

Along with modesty in action and dress, Muslims are also required to maintain a halal (lawful) lifestyle in food and drink. Similar to the Jewish tradition of Kosher, the halal designation clarifies what is permissible to consume and what is not. In fact, there is so much overlap that most Kosher designated items also fulfill guidelines of what is halal. The following are the most basic forbidden categories within halal dietary laws:

Intoxicants

“O you who believed, do not approach prayer while you are intoxicated until you know what you are saying…” (4:43).

Islam forbids consumption of any amount of intoxicant including alcohol and recreational drugs. This is intended reduce physical and spiritual harm to believers and society.

Prohibited Meat

Consumption of pork and pork related products (e.g. pork-based gelatin) is strictly prohibited in Islam. The following meat are also prohibited:
- Carrion or the decaying flesh of an animal
- Animals sacrificed to anything other than Allah
- Animals that are killed inhumanely

“Believers, eat the wholesome things which We have provided for you and give thanks to Allah, if it is to Him you worship. He has forbidden you only carrion, blood, and the flesh of swine; also any flesh that is consecrated other than the name of Allah.” (Quran 2:172-173).

Jummah Khutbah
Fridays 1 pm

Jummah, the Arabic word for Friday, is the holy day of devotion for Muslims. In several hadith, our beloved Prophet Muhammad ﷺ refers to Jummah as the best of days and the day of joy. Dua and good deeds are particularly accepted on Jummah. It gives us an opportunity to grow in piety and be closer to Allah. The following narration describes the etiquettes of Jummah:

“Any person who takes a bath on Friday, purifies himself as much as he can, then uses his (hair) oil or perfumes himself with the scent of his house, then proceeds (for the Jummah prayer) and does not separate two persons sitting together in the mosque, then prays as much as (Allah has) written for him and then remain silent while the Imam is delivering the Khutba, his sins between the present and the last Friday would be forgiven.” (Sahih Bukhari)

Jummah also refers to the Friday congregational prayer that takes the place of the midday prayer of Dhuhr. Jummah has two parts: the Khutbah (a sermon) and then the salat consisting of two rakats. Usually the Khutbah lasts from fifteen to thirty minutes and it’s split into two halves with a brief pause in between. In the sermon, the prayer leader reminds Muslims of their duties to Allah and selects a topic of religious life to highlight. The purpose of the Khutbah is to inspire the congregation to grow in taqwa (God consciousness). Once the Khutbah is over, the Iqama (2nd call to prayer) is made and the Friday congregational prayer is observed.
